Hospital bid-letting date is near

Planners of Canyon's new hospital are nearing the beginning of the end of their planning efforts.

Bill O'Connell of the architectural firm of O'Connell and Probst of Austin, reported Friday that his plans for construction of the 50-bed hospital are almost complete. He predicted that bids will be let for the hospital around July 4.

Construction should begin, if that timetable can be met, by mid-July.

O'Connell, who was in Canyon Friday to go over another set of drawings with Administrator Ray Grimes, said he is now working to wrap up all the loose ends involved in planning the hospital, which is to be located on a site in east Canyon.

"I have a little to do on several small things like the foundation, electrical and odds and ends that need to be pieced together," he said.

O'Connell is expected to return to Canyon with a completed set of drawings on the hospital some time during the week of May 27 to confer with the full board of the South Randall County Hospital District.

During that meeting, he will also seek the go-ahead on various pieces of equipment and several minor points about construction.

The district board is to meet Monday night to receive an interim report from Grimes.

O'Connell also reported Friday that construction costs may be higher than anticipated by the board months ago.

He said he has had a three-way cost estimate study run on the hospital by a Fort Worth firm. The estimate reveals that total costs for the hospital project may be right at the $1.6 million anticipated.

"We'll be close," he said.

So close, in fact, that the architect will be working with hospital board members to come up with options on equipment to keep the construction and related costs from zooming over the $1.6 million figure.

The hospital board has already received $800,000 in bonds and anticipates either issuing another $800,000 in revenue bonds or seeking Hill-Burton money.

The option to accept an offered and approved Hill-Burton loan to finance the remainder of the hospital project has not been

An employee at Jim's Gulf Service in Canyon prepares to hang up the hose on an empty pump. Jim Martin, owner of the station, said he was notified May 17 by Gulf Oil that his gasoline supply would be rationed. Now, he's out of his economy-grade gasoline and will be until the first of June. Almost all Canyon service station dealers have been placed on rationing this month and the rationing is expected to last through the summer. At least one dealer has said he will close on weekends to conserve his gasoline ration while others are still contemplating how to ease the fuel crisis.

Summer recreation program expected to draw over 400

More than 400 Canyon youths are expected to participate in this year's Summer Recreation Program, sponsored by the City of Canyon.

With instruction and fun for every kind of recreation imaginable—from swimming to drama—this summer's program is expected to draw just about the same number of participants as last summer's program when 455 youngsters spent six weeks of enjoyment.

Registration for this year's program will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday at the east end of the West Texas State University activities center. Registration will end at 11:30 a.m.

The first day of the program will be June 18 and the final day will be July 26.

Dr. A.J. Luquette, director of the program, said recreation in various sports and other areas will be supervised by college students who are considered specialists in their areas.

Youngsters can participate in the program on either Mondays and Wednesdays or Tuesdays and Thursdays during the six-week period.

Activities include swimming, twirling and cheerleading, arts and crafts, drama, tennis, trampoline and tumbling, golf, bowling and physical fitness.

All activities will cost $5 for a family's first child, $4 for a family's second child and $3 for each remaining child.

The activities, who will teach them, where they will be held and when, are listed below:

SWIMMING: 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.; 11:15 to noon, and noon to 12:45; city park swimming pool; Becky Kimmons, Altha Hale, Terry Donovan, Kris Tucker, Beverly Darby and Jo Beth Price.

ARTS-CRAFTS: 3 to 4 p.m. and 4 to 5 p.m.; First Methodist Church; Beverly Bedford and Deitah Roberts.

DRAMA: 2 to 3 p.m. and 3 to 4 p.m.; First Presbyterian Church; Orindo Eikman and Janice Newsom.

Construction costs eyed for vocational building

Canyon school board members learned Thursday that construction of a steel building for its vocational classrooms and shops may not be the most economical plan to pursue.

Representatives of two Amarillo architectural firms met with the school board early Thursday concerning construction of a new vocational building on the Canyon High School campus.

The board, after listening to 30-minute presentations by each architectural firm, selected Cantrell and Co. of Amarillo to design and supervise a new vocational school.

Representatives of Shiver and Megert Associates of Amarillo also met with the board.

J. R. Cantrell of Cantrell and Co. and Russell Megert of Shiver and Megert told the board that while it often appears a steel building will be more economical to construct, the facts usually bear out that not much money is saved on steel building construction as opposed to masonry.

Board members had informally discussed the possibility of using a steel building with some masonry for the new vocational building.

The vocational building will be constructed on the CHS campus with the state paying 53 per cent

Rapist Zilka tries again to gain his freedom

Convicted rapist Anthony Martin Zilka, who in the past five years has tried repeatedly to get out of prison through the courts, is trying again and this time may take his efforts to the federal court.

Zilka, whose writ of habeas corpus was denied last week by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, has filed a motion for rehearing before the court in connection with the writ.

Randall County Dist. Atty. George Dowlen said he believes Zilka will take the writ into the federal court system since it involves a constitutional question.

Zilka has once before approached the federal bench with a writ seeking his release from prison, where he is serving a life term for the rape of the 3-year-old daughter of his common-law wife in the early 1960s.

That writ was turned down.

Filing writs in state and federal courts has been even more than an annual affair for the tall former farm laborer. All his efforts have been to no avail so far.

The current question raised by Zilka's latest writ concerns two Pennsylvania cases for which he was convicted in the 1950s. He claimed in his writ and during a hearing in Amarillo a month ago before 47th District Court Judge

Due to declining enrollment

Fourteen at WTSU given notice

Fourteen West Texas State University faculty members, one of them with tenure, were notified last week that the next school year will be their last with the university.

Dr. Ray A. Malzahn, academic vice president, said the 14 were notified by mail of the termination of their employment for the 1974-75 academic year due to a three-year decline in student enrollment.

This spring's termination of 14 faculty members follows a similar cut in faculty last spring when 11 faculty members were given a year's notice.

Names of faculty members who must find other jobs were not released.

Malzahn said it is university policy that one-year notice be given of termination to enable affected faculty members to find other jobs.

"The university will assist these faculty members in every way possible to secure teaching positions elsewhere," he said.

University officials also said last week that salary increases for faculty and staff will be sparse.

Malzahn said all the colleges and schools of the university were involved in the terminations.

The vice president added that a larger than expected number of faculty retirements and resignations this spring somewhat eased the employment situation for the next two years.

But, Malzahn said, because of budgetary limitations for the year 1973-74 instructional salary increases would be confined to those completing doctoral programs.

The university enrollment last fall was 6,575 after a decade of yearly increase peaked in 1969 with 7,935 students.

In 1970, the year the student enrollment decline started, the university had 366 faculty members and offered 10 degrees. This past year it had a faculty of 345 and the number of degree programs had risen to 16.

Malzahn said another factor in the need to reduce the faculty size in some areas was a shift in student interest to other academic areas where the demand for graduates is greater. Nursing is one such area, he said.

"Our nursing program was started only last summer and already we have 236 declared majors in the field," he added.

As a result, Malzahn said, the nursing department will need to employ four more faculty members next fall. He said part of the salaries for the additional faculty will come from a federal grant.

He said the School of Agriculture and the Department of Music will each add one part-time faculty in 1973-74 because of new degree programs authorized by the State Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The programs are a Master of Agriculture and a major in music therapy for the Bachelor of Music degree.

Virgil Henson, financial vice president, said the line item budget for faculty salaries in the current fiscal year was $3,919,256. The amount listed in the appropriations bill before the current Texas Legislature for 1973-74 is $3,584,484, a reduction of $334,772.

He said the university asked for $4,065,587 for faculty salaries based on a formula approved by the Coordinating Board, but the Legislature funded at a lower rate.

"The lower rate applied to all state schools," he said.

Henson said the university was being given special consideration in funding by the Legislature in the first year of the biennium starting Sept. 1, 1973 to allow time for necessary terminal notices and reductions, but the consideration would not be carried forward into the second year.

The appropriation in the areas of administration and general expense will also carry reduc-

Area reps boost WT in Austin

The area's two representatives in the state legislature did some fancy footwork to save a multi-thousand dollar appropriation for West Texas State University faculty salaries last week as the joint conference committee took a final look at their money bill.

Sen. Max Sherman, who managed to plug a $300,000 extra appropriation in the Senate version of the appropriations bill several weeks ago, said Friday the conference committee's bill contains about $250,000 in additional money for WTSU faculty salaries.

The conference committee has for all practical purposes finished work on the appropriations bill, Sherman said and is expected to send it back to the House and Senate for approval this week, the final week in this legislative session.

He expects the $250,000 to stand through the House and Senate.

Keeping the $250,000 in the conference committee bill was apparently something of a problem, though.

Sherman reported he and Poff were kept busy last week after learning the $250,000 had been cut from the bill talking with legislators to have the funding restored.

The current appropriation for WTSU salaries is $3.919 million. WTSU had sought $4.065 million.

Sherman said the $250,000 was added to help ease the university

Dr. Brent Lynch, standing, and Dr. Theodore Freidell, look over the course of instruction to be offered this summer during a three-week institute for juvenile judges from across the state. The institute will be at West Texas State University sponsored by the Texas Criminal Justice Council. Lynch is director of the institute and a local professor of government. Freidell is dean of the school of arts and sciences at the university.

Juvenile institute here is a first in the state

As many as 30 judges from across the state of Texas will be invited soon to attend a three-week juvenile judges' institute on the West Texas State University campus.

The institute, sponsored by the state Criminal Justice Council through the Texas Center for the Judiciary, is set July 30 through Aug. 17 on the campus.

Developed by Dr. Brent Lynch, program director for criminal justice administration at WTSU, County Judge Woody Pond and C. L. Abernathy, planner with the Panhandle Regional Criminal Justice Council, the institute will be the first of its kind offered in Texas.

Similar institutes are offered annually in Minnesota, Louisiana and Nevada, according to Judge Pond.

Primary thrust of the institute, which will utilize WTSU classroom space and dormitory space for the judges attending, will be the juvenile and his relationship to the court system in the state.

Pond said as many as 30 judges could attend the institute with all fees and travel expenses funded through the Texas Criminal Justice Council. District judges, judges of courts of domestic relations, county court-at-law judges and county judges will be invited to attend.

An advisory committee of Pond, Abernathy, Dr. Theodore Freidell, dean of the WTSU college of arts and sciences, and a judge chosen by the student judges will supervise the institute. Lynch, as director, will prepare all materials for the institute.

Several WTSU faculty members, particularly in the

Fightin' Fern will return to seek Hill Road paving

The drive to Fern Patterson's house several miles northwest of Canyon is pleasant with the sun beaming down from a cloudless sky.

U.S. 87 makes for good time as you zip along at 70 miles per hour and Hollywood Road going west, although narrower than the interstate, is a smooth and virtually chuck holeless sheet of concrete.

Hill Road is another story. Like 800 miles of road in Randall County, Hill Road is dirt. After rains, it's mud.

"Did you have any trouble getting out here?" Fightin' Fern asks as you step from the car. "You should try it after a rain.

"You know, we've had more grading on that road since we started going down there than we had in all of 1972, I do believe," she says, jutting her jaw and squinting her eyes.

For Fightin' Fern Patterson, Hill Road has become more than simply a mere transportation convenience (and, after even light rains, it has become somewhat less than that). It's become a cause.

Mrs. Patterson wants Hill Road paved and she's attended every Randall County commissioners' court meeting except one during the past month asking commissioners to pave the road.

Each time, she and the other women from Hill Road have been turned away.

"You know durned good and well we've got the run-around," she said. "You know what they told me last time and I don't really know what they told me."

Commissioners have yet to outright decline to pave Hill Road, but they've come close to it. Commissioner John Fulgenzi, who represents the people on Hill Road on the court, has said the first priority for paving in his precinct is 34th Street.

Mrs. Patterson feels she's been treated with less than openness by the commissioners.

"They've never told me the same thing twice," she said. "They've given us the run around all the way around."

It's her treatment during commissioner's court sessions that has led Mrs. Patterson to the conclusion that the rural population of Randall County is without representation on the court.

"They don't need one soul except Amarillo," she declares. "We might as well not be here."

In addition, Mrs. Patterson has had a hard time finding out why commissioners won't pave her road.

"They've told her they can't afford it and that other roads have priorities.

But, spending several hours with county officials poring over financial statements, Mrs. Patterson admits she knows just about the same as she knew before.

"I can't find out a thing," she says.

Our World

Our City A Delight To Share With Others

By ANN BROWN

There may be some disagreement concerning industry's value to Canyon. But wouldn't we all be happy to share our delightful little city with others? If so, we should publicize our assets.

Canyon has almost all the advantages any city has to offer. And whatever it lacks, our good neighbor to the north can usually supply.

We certainly have the most beautiful town on the Plains—perhaps in all Texas. Anyone entering Canyon from the north, south, or east—day or night—will likely agree.

In addition to the advantages of being a university and county-seat town, Canyon's public school system is unquestionably among the finest in the nation. Amarillo realtors report, "Is it in the Canyon School District?" is usually the first question asked by prospective home buyers who have children.

Canyon offers housing to meet almost every taste and need. We have excellent shops, adequate restaurant and motel facilities, and space to breathe.

Canyon boasts a public library, an excellent hospital staffed with dedicated doctors and nurses, and a nursing home where the patients get an abundance of TLC.

The Canyon Art Gallery displays paintings of rare skill and beauty. The Panhandle Plains Historical Museum records frequent visitors from a hundred-mile radius, and the "Texas" production in the Palo Duro Canyon attracts tourists from around the world.

Our climate is relatively pleasant about 360 days out of the year. And, nestled in the canyon, the heart of the city is historically free from tornadoes—quite a comforting thought every spring.

In addition to being beautiful, comfortable, and protected, Canyon has good water, fresh air, and ample living space.

But the real treasure of any area lies in its people. Canyon enjoys the distinction of having the highest educational level of any city in America.

The national median of school years completed is 12.1 (up 2 years since the 1960 census). Canyon residents average 13.6 years of formal schooling (and has for many years), a tribute to West Texas State University.

Knowledge is, however, a doubtful blessing without the wisdom to use it. And "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Prov. 9:10).

Canyon has been blessed from its beginning with a majority of God-fearing people. History records that Canyon was preferred over its larger neighbors for the home of West Texas State Normal School because of its "quantity and quality of water, climatic conditions, railway facilities, general social and religious atmosphere, and size. . . ." Those conditions have remained relatively unchanged for 63 years.

Because of West Texas State University, the majority of the population of Canyon is composed of the cream of the Panhandle's young people.

The quality of Plains people was eloquently demonstrated during the past decade of college riots. There were no disburbances at WTSU.

It is quite possible, however, that local residents may be prejudiced concerning the people of this area.

So listen to the evaluation of visitors whose mobile home was destroyed by the April 14 tornado north of Amarillo. The following is an excerpt from a letter to the editor of the Amarillo Daily News from Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kizer of 480 Sexton Road, Howell, Michigan:

"This letter is to let your community, and the dozens and dozens of good people who came to see us and offer help, know that we reached home safely. . . . the gracious, real concern and friendliness of your community is something we will always cherish and remember. For complete strangers to walk into our hospital room and not only ask but insist on being of help by offering to shop for us, loan us money, open their homes to us following discharge, return our scattered belongings, and in numerous other ways declare their friendship, was something that in this day and age comes under the heading of 'priceless.'

"There was also ample evidence of deep and abiding honesty on the part of the people in your part of Texas as exhibited by the many who found and returned to us possessions of ours they had found including cash. . . What your weather may on occasion lack, the people of Amarillo and surrounding area more than make up for."

Could any region ask for richer assets?

City To Meet

The Canyon City Commission, in its regular meeting Monday night, is expected to consider a zoning proposal regarding Pioneer Estates, and to hear a detailed report from Dr. A. J. Luquette on the upcoming summer youth program.

Other items expected to be considered by commissioners are bids for a new one-ton truck for the water and sewer department, an ordinance for annexation of land adjacent to Pioneer Estates, and the extension of storm sewers in that same area.

The third and final reading of Ordinance 382 granting a franchise to Pioneer National Natural Gas Co., is also scheduled for Monday night.

Making Trouble

(An Editorial)

If nothing else, Watergate should have taught us the value of a press that digs and digs and digs.

Bureaucrats would of course much rather hand out self serving press releases than have newspaper ferrets loose in their domain.

Power structures whether national or local are much more comfortable when they can deal out their version of wisdom without fear of press exposure.

We have newspapers right in this area that take pride in dishing out warm pablum instead of hard facts. One newspaper 30 miles south of here only last week boasted that it had not carried a story about the contesting of a school board election because it would be "bad for the community."

What the people need is facts upon which to base decisions in public matters, not protection from a misguided, untrained editor who thinks he knows best what portion of the facts should be allowed them.

Watergate also should teach us that betrayal of public trust is rampant in this country, sometimes perpetrated by people in whom we have had the utmost faith.

This newspaper is ever alert to this possibility and to that extent proudly pleads guilty to being a "trouble maker."

Left, Right Together On New Constitution

By CARROLL WILSON

Opposition appears to be building over the state to the state constitution as it might be revised even before a revised document has been completed or made public.

The opposition comes from two sides — the left and the right, and the extremes in those cases.

And, it stems from several things. Opponents disdain the fact that the legislature will sit as a constitutional convention. They don't like the fact that the constitutional revision commission includes a majority of representation from big business and industry.

The unusual thing is the general agreement between right and left that the whole thing has been handled wrong and will result in a less than desirable constitution for the state.

Seldom do right and left meet on any one issue, but the constitution revision has them on the same side of the street.

I predict defeat for the constitution when it is presented the voter.

Fightin' Fern Patterson out on unpaved Hill Road strongly contends that the fellow who lives outside of Amarillo in Randall County is basically without representation on the Randall County commissioners' court.

She's just about right.

Bill Butler and John Fulgenzi make their homes in Amarillo and depend on Amarilloans to vote them into office. Jim Fletcher, although he doesn't live in Amarillo, depends on Amarillo strength to boost him into office.

Paul Lindsey alone is elected from a rural portion of the county.

The man in the country is a man without a country here.

Butler, Fulgenzi and Fletcher devoutly deny their sole interests are in Amarillo. Yet, when anything is wanted for the rural areas of the county, they are the first to point out that the bulk of the tax money in the county comes from Amarillo. Therefore, Amarillo's interests must be first served.

This part of Texas doesn't have a lot of friends in the Texas legislature. But, we got some help down there, primarily through the efforts of Max Sherman and Bryan Poff, in getting some extra money to operate West Texas State University next year.

Max and Bryan spent long hours working with other legislators and telling them about WTSU and why it needed more money next year to operate.

A drastic cut in money could have brought the university to its knees.

An interesting item brought in by Dr. Dudley Moore the other day concerning medical care costs:

"The patient can probably prevent at least half of his yearly medical expense. In 1970, according to Science Digest, the American public spent more than $2 billion on quackery — more than was spent on medical education . . . Last year the average American spent almost twice as much on his car as he did on his body."

Did we have spring this year? I must have missed it.

Maybe it's still coming, but we haven't even been seriously threatened yet by tornadic weather.

This has been an odd year from the standpoint of weather. I hope it calms down so farmers can get in their wheat.

Letters To The Editor

So We're All Affluent, Eh? Reader Asks Dr. Moore

Editor Canyon News
Dear Sir:

In a recent paper Dr. Dudley Moore Jr. was quoted as saying "many people over 65 are relatively affluent" and so were not entitled to any special treatment relative to taxes, etc.

This is an irresponsible and irrational statement of no validity whatever.

First — "relatively" to what? A thing cannot be relative to itself.

Second — How many is "many?" 5%? 10%? 20%? Add all three of these percentages together and you still have somewhat less than a simple majority.

If the City and the school board are really serious about giving the senior citizens a tax break, I suggest they consider a new bill which is attracting considerable attention, now before the Washington State legislature. The bill as it stands is far too liberal for Canyon but the basic idea is good and fair, and can be rather easily adapted to the local situation without a blanket exemption for the "relatively affluent."

In my day, children walked to school and bought their own textbooks and band instruments. The "relatively affluent" rode bicycles, and if you lived over 1½ miles or so, you carried your own lunch. There were no buses. Our only contribution to smog was the vapor of our breath on a cold day.

"Relatively affluent?" You're darn right! Relatively affluent in the virtues of love, hope, work and save.

We have fought the good fight. We have won the race. We can look the whole world in the face for we owe not any man. We can hold our heads high with dignity and pride for we never ran to Washington to beg for the things we could do for ourselves.

Thank heaven I lived in the "good old days" when thrift and industry were virtues and not a sickness.

If you're still reading, thank you for your interest.

Sincerely,
Charles W. Martin

Sleeper In Fed Law

Dear Troy,

"Sleeper Clause"

The only thing we get for doing nothing is higher taxes.

Danger inherent in Revenue Sharing Laws can be multiple if one believes in grassroot control, either locally or at a state level.

Exponents of Revenue Sharing concept and governmental units at a state level are finding that funds will be prorated only if governmental units, state, county, city or town, are levying sufficiently high local taxes on citizenry.

The clause removes tax decisions from local jurisdiction if a full share of Revenue Sharing is to be a reality.

Thank you,

Tax Board Will Meet On Monday

Equalization board of the Canyon school district will meet beginning at 9 a.m. Monday to hear complaints from taxpayers.

Tax assessor-collector Conway Kuykendall said more than 300 courtesy notices, noting a change in values, have been sent to taxpayers in the district.

Larry Hooper, vice president of First National Bank, is chairman of the equalization board, Fred Begert, a farmer and stockman, is secretary, and Earl Marrs, a developer, is a member of the board.

Kuykendall said the board is expected to meet through the morning before adjourning for lunch at noon. They will meet again at 1:30 until 4 p.m.

If many taxpayers desire an audience with the board, he said, the board can meet through Tuesday, also.

The meeting will be in the tax assessor's office in the county courthouse in Canyon.

The Randall County Commissioners will meet as a board of equalization Monday afternoon following their regular 1 p.m. meeting. They are expected to meet with Mrs. Audrey Bruse, tax assessor-collector, in a session before formal equalization board hearings begin. No complaints are to be taken at the Monday meeting.

Sign-ups Set For Ball Play

All interested persons who wish to participate in the Canyon City Recreation Men's Slow Pitch Softball League are asked to attend an organizational meeting at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Village Inn here.

Lewis Texaco is defending champion in the league.

Dr. A. J. Luquette, league organizer, said the meeting will involve determining how many teams will be fielded this year.

Hutton Says Bill Could Pass House

A House bill condemned by County Clerk LeRoy Hutton appears headed for passage in the Texas House, he said this week.

Hutton said the bill, which he says would severely hamper punch-card voting in the state, was read a second time Saturday in the House.

"It looks like the House will vote on it perhaps this week," he said. "Our only hope to beat it is in the Senate."

Toward that end, Hutton has written Sen. Max Sherman about the bill.

Hutton said the bill has been amended since his trip to Austin to testify about the bill before a committee. But, he still doesn't know what the amendments say.

Hutton has said the deadlines incorporated in the bill as well as other requirements will be impossible to meet with punch-card voting, which Randall County pioneered in the state.

MEAT PRICES TEST homemakers skills as planners, shoppers and cooks. Get the most from meat purchases by "stretching" them.

Although Americans generally consume more, a person needs two three-ounce servings of meat daily. There are several methods and "extenders" for providing this amount while satisfying family tastes.

Although a family member might complain about three-ounce servings of steak, that same amount of meat in a stew, soup, casserole, or salad goes much farther.

Another extension method involves combining protein-rich dry beans, peas or lentils with less meat. For example, bean soup with ham, lentils and bacon, hot dogs or short ribs are hearty, economical and nutritious. In addition less expensive types of meat are budget stretchers. Ground meat, for example, combines well with many different foods. Hamburger patties easily furnish the three-ounce meat serving.

For families preferring large meat patties, combine one of the following with ground meat before making patties — oatmeal, crushed cereal, bread crumbs or even rice. Add a beaten egg to hold mixture together and form patties. Cook as desired for tasty, nutritious patties.

AMERICANS SPEND AN average of 15.8 per cent of their income on food; the English 22 per cent; the Japanese 29 per cent and the Russians 45-50 per cent, according to December surveys.

To determine what part of your grocery bill is edible food, as a rule of thumb, subtract 20 per cent for non-edible household items, pet food, etc.

New Co-owner Of Local Store

Mark Gardner, a native of Causey, N.M., and a recent graduate of New Mexico State University at Las Cruces, has joined his older brother, Ray, as co-owner of the White Auto Store at 1609 4th Ave.

The younger Gardner joined the firm this past Monday after receiving his bachelor's degree in agriculture. He had worked in the Canyon store two summers ago.

"I like Canyon," the younger brother said. He added that his favorite pastime is golf.

Ray Gardner has been owner-manager of the store for about 2½ years.

areas of sociology, government and psychology will also serve as instructors for the institute. Expected to participate in instructing the institute are Dr. Thomas Cannon, WT associate professor of psychology; Dr. Kenneth Keiser, associate professor of sociology; Dr. Ross Staton, associate professor of social work; David Matthis, associate professor of government; Clark Wooldridge, assistant professor of sociology; Dr. Hubert Oppe, professor of sociology; Dr. William Irwin, assistant professor of psychology, Dr. Charles Smith, assistant professor of biology; and Dr. A. J. Luquette, assistant professor of physical education.

In addition, Pond said several guest speakers and lecturers from throughout the nation have been asked to participate in the institute.

Lynch said the institute is designed to give the judges a "comprehensive view both in scope and depth of the philosophy and history of juvenile criminal justice in the federal, Texas and other state juvenile systems."

The course work will concentrate on the organization and structure of the juvenile court system, the social and psychological development of the adolescent and the delinquent.

Social factors and influences on development will be traced as to causes of delinquency as well as rehabilitation and control, Lynch said.

Pond said he anticipates that the institute will become an annual event sponsored on the WTSU campus. He envisions a larger enrollment next summer since he terms this summer's institute a pilot project.

"I think this is one of the best things to happen to West Texas State in quite a few years as far as reaching down-state is concerned," Dr. Freidell said.

He commended Pond and Abernathy for their efforts at having the institute established at West Texas State.

While on the local campus, the judges will attend class from 8 to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. each day. Weekends will be free, with several picnics and field trips anticipated and planned.

He said he believes the $250,000 will be adequate interim funding.

Sherman said he thinks the conference committee will see smooth sailing through the Hourse and Senate since amendments are not allowed and the entire bill must be passed or rejected as a whole.

E. E. "Gene" Jordan, that he did not have attorneys during the earlier Pennsylvania felony trials.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in the mid-1960s that all defendants in felony cases must be represented by counsel. The ruling was retroactive.

Zilka claimed in his hearing that he was not represented and therefore his conviction for rape in 47th District Court here should be thrown out and another trial called. He alleged that a substantial part of the state's case against him in the rape trial revolved around his prior convictions.

Judge Jordan ruled, and the court of criminal appeals concurred, that Zilka was not an indigent in the Pennsylvania cases and could have hired counsel.

Accordingly, there will be a decrease in the number of non-instructional personnel, too, he added.

"Normal attrition will take care of this in most areas by September 1974," he said. "We have a large turnover of personnel in some areas."

Henson said pay increases for non-academic employees will depend upon legislative decision but will be limited to those increases mandated and funded by the Legislature.

"We will not know about pay increases for them until the appropriations bill is finally passed," he said.

of the cost and the local district absorbing 47 per cent of the cost. Total cost of the project is not to exceed about $500,000.

It is to house facilities for auto mechanics, building trades, home-making, agriculture and vocational office education.

The board two weeks ago approved construction of the building.

Supt. Jerry Jacobs said the architectural firm must go to work on the design of the building immediately. The school district has until Aug. 29 to let bids for construction.

Cantrell told the board his firm designed the new Amarillo High School Building and the vocational campus for Amarillo College. They also designed the new fine arts center for Amarillo College.

When questioned about the use of a steel building for the new vocational building, Cantrell said "I don't know, cost-wise, if you'd be saving any money by the time you fix up what you need. I expect it would break out to about the same as a concrete building."

Jacobs said the board is now thinking of constructing just one building to house the vocational functions of the high school.

Cantrell said he will do a cost study on which type of construction — masonry or steel building — would be most economical and present his findings to the board.

Megert and three associates attended the board meeting and described several of the buildings they have designed in recent years.

He said his firm has found that "there's not that much economy in pre-engineered (steel) buildings. By the time you put everything in that's necessary, there's not that much difference."

Following the early Thursday meeting, the school board members toured the campuses of the high school, junior high and the two elementary schools.

Mrs. Vars Speaks To Canyon Dames

Canyon Dames heard Mrs. Lila Vars, TFWC district president, speak on federated women's clubs at their salad luncheon held Monday, May 14, at the Episcopal University Center.

Hostesses Diane Kasten and Judy Boyce decorated the tables in pastel colors to carry out the "Birthday Party" theme. A gift exchange celebrating all the members' birthdays was part of the activities at the luncheon.

Locals' Grandson Honored For Grades

The grandson of two Canyon couples has been named salutatorian of the Shamrock Junior High School class.

Scott Wells, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wright of 2102 2nd Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Wells of 1307 7th Ave., had a grade average of 94.66 for the year.

Scott has played football and basketball and has been active in band and church activities. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wells, former Canyon residents. He is a member of the National Honor Society.

Paving . . .

and nonchalance have led Mrs. Patterson away from her original position of simply wanting paving for Hill Road.

Now, her cause is county-wide.

"I'm not against doing 34th Street," she said, "But couldn't they take some of this money and set aside a part of it strictly for the farm in the mud?"

Mrs. Patterson, who said she's received calls and support from all over the county, now wants a certain portion of county money turned into a fund annually to pave a portion of the county roads.

"Eventually, we'd get out of the mud," she said. "If we ever knew we'd sooner or later get out of the mud, it wouldn't be so bad. But, now there's no future."

It's with Hill Road in the back of her mind and with the road problem throughout the county at the fore that Mrs. Patterson will return to commissioner's court Monday to try again.

"We're going to fight for everybody in the mud in the county," she said.

Exactly how she's going to fight for everybody she hasn't yet decided.

"It won't do any good to go down and keep saying 'I want a road, I want a road, I want a road,'" she said. "But, we haven't stopped."

"I don't know what to do from here on out. The only thing I can think of is to get everybody in the rural area out there. We have no representation whatsoever."

For Fightin' Fern, the road to commissioner approval has been as muddy as the dirt road she wants paved.

Penal Code Insanity Clause Scorned By District Attorney

Randall County's district attorney, George Dowlen, who worked for several years on two committees revising the Texas Penal Code, viewed the code's passage by the Senate last week with mixed emotions.

Dowlen, who served on separate State Bar Association and District and County Attorneys Association committees to revise the code, approves of the code as it passed the Senate with one exception.

"The problem with the penal code is the insanity law included in it," Dowlen said.

The penal code was presented and passed the Senate without sections on drug abuse or abortions.

The code outlines crimes and penalties in successive order.

It will be introduced in the House this week.

The test for insanity in the proposed penal code involves the question: Did the defendant, as a result of mental disorder or defect not know his conduct was wrong or was he incapable of conforming his conduct to the requirements of the law? The penal code says mental disorder of defect cannot be defined as an abnormality manifested by repeated criminal conduct.

"This is a definition of insanity that has never been adopted by any state," Dowlen said. "It appears to be inconsistent in that on the one hand it says if a defendant is incapable of conforming his conduct to a legal state, he is insane, whereas in determining whether he's insane you cannot go into his prior crimes."

Dowlen said the new definition of insanity could prove almost unworkable for psychiatrists asked to deal with accused offenders and testify.

"A psychiatrist, in determining whether a man is insane is not supposed to consider all the facts concerning his past — like his other crimes," Dowlen said. "It puts a virtually impossible burden on the psychiatrists in their attempt to discover the truth of a person's condition and it places a virtually impossible burden on the state in that under this definition, a defendant can know what he's doing is wrong, do it, and still be insane."

Dowlen said he expects House legislators to attempt to amend the code, particularly on the insanity clause.

He said the insanity clause now in Texas law stipulates that a defendant may be judged insane if because of mental disorder or defect he didn't know right from wrong and couldn't understand the nature and consequences of his act.

Time Is Now To Plant Tomatoes In Gardens

(The following is another article in a series provided by County Agent John Brazzil on gardening).

The time is ripe to put out tomato plants this year for home gardeners, according to County Agent John Brazzil.

"Soil temperature is now high enough to support the tomato," he said.

In selecting tomato plants for Canyon and the area, Brazzil reminds local gardeners to be well aware of the plants' disease resistance, and adaptation to plains weather.

"Tomatoes belong to a family of plants which originated in the tropics," he said. "They do best at temperatures above 65 degrees and below 90 degrees. Day or night temperatures which exceed those limits during fruiting season will cause the tomato bloom not to pollinate."

Brazzil said the small-fruited varieties of tomato plants will bear fruit best under adverse conditions while the very large late blooming varieties are more apt to have pollination problems.

He suggested varieties such as early salad, tiny tim or summer cherry as ideal small tomato varieties or spring giant hybrid, red cloud and plainsman as good medium-sized varieties.

Once the tomato plants are put in the ground, Brazzil said, some form of wind protection is important for the first two to three weeks of plant growth. He suggested gardeners use milk cartons with ends cut out, cans and buckets with ends cut out or shingles placed around the newly set plants for protection.

He also suggested use of a frame for individual tomato plants. It can be constructed of concrete reinforcing wire or large mesh fencing wire. The wire should be at least four feet in highth and have large mesh.

"To make a planting cylinder, cut the wire in five-foot lengths," he said. "Form the wire into a cylinder and bend the ends together. Place the cylinder of wire down over the individual plants when they are well established and the need for the wind protection carton is over."

The wire should be securely staked to the ground using several four- to six-foot laths or wooden stakes which should be woven through the mesh into the ground.

Brazzil warned that when using the wire cylinder plants should not be pruned.

"As the plant grows in height some of the side branches will grow out of the openings in the wire," he said. "Early branches can be placed back inside the cylinder but after a few weeks as the plant lengthens, the side branches should be allowed to grow outside."

Fruiting of the plant will take place inside the wire cylinder, he said and the plants will continue to grow until the entire cylinder is full of plant and fruit.

Advantage of the cylinder is that it holds the plant off the ground, prohibiting sun scald or rotting of the fruit.

Brazzil warned that tomatoes are susceptible to disease and insects. The large tomato horned worm is the primary insect which can damage the plants, while curley top, a virus disease spread by a leaf hopper, is a serious threat.

Since the curley top virus comes from weeds and is spread by leaf hoppers, weeds in alleys and in fence rows should be controlled," he said.

N.M. All-stater Signs With WT

An all-state New Mexico basketball player has agreed to play with the West Texas State University Buffaloes next year.

He is Dick Torpey, a Roswell, N.M., Goddard High School graduate.

Torpey, at 6-5, started two years on the high school team under Coach Bill French, who also coached current WTSU assistant Mike Mitchell.

Torpey averaged 15.5 points per game and 10 rebounds during the past season for a team with a 13-6 season record. He was team captain last year and was named to the all-district team and to honorable mention on the all-state team. He was picked to play in the New Mexico High School Coaches Association all-star game in Albuquerque in August.

"Dick has a tremendous attitude and is dedicated," said French. "When he lost in the district tournament to end our season, Dick was in the gym practicing on his own for two hours the following afternoon.

"He compares to Mitchell (second leading scorer in WTSU history) as a player in many ways. He is the same type of competitor and is a fine shooter."

Summer School Classes Planned

Registration for summer school for Canyon High School and Canyon Junior High School will be June 4 at the junior high cafeteria. Registration will begin at 8 a.m., school officials said.

According to principals John Sommer and Dave Corley, courses in English, math, social studies and science will be offered. All courses to be offered will be for remedial or makeup purposes, the principals said.

Students will be allowed to take courses equal to one semester of regular class. Each class will be two and one-half hours in length, with classes beginning at 7 a.m. and dismissing at 12:10 p.m. daily.

July 4 will be a school holiday, and classes will end on July 13.

Tuition for the first course will be $18.50 and for the second course it will be $12.50.

Each class offered must enroll a minimum of 20 students, officials said.

Mrs. Bryan Poff, wife of Rep. Bryan Poff, displays one of the needlepoint chair seats she and other legislators' wives are stitching for dining room chairs in the Governor's Mansion at Austin. She also specializes in needlepoint pictures of the seal of the State of Texas.

Accent On The Arts

By JUNE DAYEN

"I NEVER SAW Another Butterfly," a play about young people growing up in a war concentration camp, will be given by a class of Charles E. Wright's drama students at 8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday evenings at Canyon High School. No admission will be charged and all are invited to attend.

Mr. Wright believes the production of this play to be a good way for the 33 students involved to learn more about drama and more about life. Senior Kim Tully will play the lead role of Irena both nights. Alternating in the role of Raja will be Carol Coleman and Julie Whittington, and taking turns at the part of Pauvel will be Mike Hughes and Lynn Williams.

WT MUSIC AND drama students have made varied plans for the summer.

Weddings planned include that of Linda Pinkerton and Johnny Johnson, both music majors, next Saturday in Coppell, Texas, Linda's home town.

Jana Mills, who has been organist for the First Presbyterian Church this year, will wed Jim Hogan, a senior physical education major, in Panhandle, Texas, next Friday evening. Jana describes herself as a sports enthusiast and has participated in track at WT.

Margaret Hathaway and Stephen Haddad's nuptials last Sunday in El Paso and Darla Rhodes and Rick Davis's scheduled wedding in July near Glacier National Park have already been mentioned.

Rodney Miller, selected outstanding voice major for 1972-73 at WTSU, will be singing in TEXAS.

Steve Hilton plans to concentrate on finishing up his requirements for a degree at the end of summer school, with possibilities of going on to graduate work in composition. Steve sang and played on guitar a beautiful ballad he had composed three years ago for his mother as a special Mothers Day treat at one of the Canyon churches last Sunday.

Dennis Richardson will be commissioned into the U.S. Marines.

Rick Wilson of last summer's TEXAS cast will work as night manager at the WT Activities Center this summer and plans to work in Phoenix next fall.

Rene Clemente, Vicki McFarlin and Steve Garms will be touring with the WT pop group, A New Day, in the Caribbean under the auspices of the USO.

Four of last year's Texas dancers, Mark Lanham, Mike McKenzie, Matt Walker, and Darrell Yeager, will study and perform in ballet workshops in San Francisco.

Linda McNeil will sing in summer theater at Casa Manana at Ft. Worth.

CANYON HIGH SCHOOL Band and Choir and the Junior High School choir gave their final concerts this past week, crowning a year of outstanding performance.

Not only have these young people performed in concerts and contests, but have also provided a year of musical accompaniment and entertainment for most of Canyon's club and organizational "goings-on." This thought occurred to me as I ran into Brad Garner, Teddi Crager, and Sharon Lumry — a flute trio — going in to play for Canyon Study Club's salad supper and installation this past week.

CAROL CRAIN SENT us from Austin an interesting sketch of Mrs. Bryan Poff, telling about her latest project in needlepoint. It follows:

"Mrs. Bryan Poff, a vivacious brunette who is enthusiastic about her home life, her husband's work, and her needlepoint is among 24 State Representatives' wives from throughout Texas who have begun work on a pet project for the Governor's Mansion.

Lynda, the only wife from the Panhandle Delegation who is involved in the project, is utilizing spare moments between this Legislative session and the next to needlepoint a canvas that will eventually grace one of the dining room chairs in the Governor's Mansion for years to come.

Each of the chair cushions will be enhanced by 24 of the selected wild-flowers of Texas, and are sure to be a hit at the upcoming State dinner parties held by the history-making occupants.

'Several of the wives got together and discussed the idea this session,' Lynda said, 'We thought that it would be nice to have the beautiful wild-flowers of Texas decorating the chair seats,' she noted.

These will replace the somewhat worn ones of vinyl and brocade that are now used in the family and state dining rooms. After the formal presentation, to be held at the beginning of the next Legislative Session, all the chairs in the two rooms will match.

The background of each canvas is a subtle cranberry red. A gold frame encircles the wild flower while at the top of the frame sits a gold star with oak leaf, wreath and rope, which symbolizes that Texas was once a sovereign country. Inside the frame the background is off-white in color with the selected wild flower in a variety of colors placed in the center.

Lynda is stitching the flower known as the spiderwort, which looks much like a miniature purple iris.

'It grows profusely in Central and South Texas,' she explained.

When the design is complete each wife will stitch her initials at the corner. LKP will be placed with love among the 178,342 stitches for permanent display in the historic mansion.

For the past twelve years Lynda has enjoyed doing needlepoint for her home, teaching many of her friends. This year has been no exception. She has painted, for many of the members of the House of Representatives' Wives Club, the seal of the State of Texas in color onto the needlepoint canvas for each to stitch. The seals are time consuming and, when finished will be found framed in the Capitol offices of many of the Representatives, a gift from their respective wives."

County Cancer Unit Elects New Officers

Allene J. Stovall was elected president of the Randall County Unit of the American Cancer Society at the annual luncheon meeting Thursday in the Green Room of the West Texas State University cafeteria. She is assistant professor of Health and Physical Education at the University. Miss Ruth Cross is retiring president.

Other officers elected included Thomas D. MacOwan, vice-president; Mrs. W.J. Wooten, Jr., secretary, and Lloyd Kurtz, treasurer. Standing committee chairmen will be named by the president at a later date. Lloyd "Hap" McAtee and Mary Alice Hines were elected to the board.

Bennie Cooper, crusade chairman, reported that 82 per cent of the $5,000 goal for 1973 had been received. Other fund raising efforts for the summer will include a Swim-a-Thon and a Bike-a-Thon.

Miss Stovall stated that six cancer films had been shown and pamphlets distributed. Special programs were presented to local men's civic clubs.

Dr. T. Paige Carruth, who serves as area unit education chairman and zone educational vice-chairman, told of activities in these areas. The zone is composed of several districts and reaches from Perryton to El Paso.

Lloyd Kurtz, advance chairman, said that $4,800 had been received from the crusade and memorials. Memorials are accepted throughout the year in memory of cancer victims, with special emphasis placed on Memorial Day, May 28.

Recognition was given Dorothy Smith, secretary; Irma Money, publicity, and Mary Alice Hines and Carroll Wilson, downtown crusade chairmen.

Combined Annual District and Area 1 Cancer Society meeting will be held June 5, in Lubbock. Delegates named to represent the local society were chairmen of the standing committees.

The State meeting will convene in Houston, Aug. 22-23. The president will attend as delegate, with the vice-president as alternate.

John Altis, field representative for the American Cancer Society, was special guest for the luncheon. He stressed that every board member is an active worker for the society.

Star Gridder Signs With WT

Cliff Laws, a standout football and track man from Tahoka, has signed an athletic scholarship agreement with West Texas State University to play football.

The 6-4, 230-pounder started for three years on offense and defense for Tahoka High School and was an all-district pick this past season. He has reached the state meet in both the discus and shot put events for the past two years.

"Cliff is an extremely strong and quick lineman," said Tahoka coach A.J. Viertel. "That quickness and strength makes him a fine prospect for college. He gets off the ball well as a blocker."

Laws didn't place in the 1972 state meet, but was second in the shot put and fifth in the discus this spring at the Austin event.

His best shot put effort was 56-8¾ in the regional meet at Odessa and he threw the discus 156-2 at Idaho's Invitational. He put the shot 54-8 at the state meet.

"Cliff hasn't spent a great deal of time working on a weight program, so he has the potential to get even stronger," said track coach Ray Finley.

Scabies Bill Passes House

A bill to ease stringent scabies quarantine regulations for Texas cattlemen passed the Texas House last week and was sent to the Senate for action.

The bill, by Rep. Bryan Poff, will be carried through the Senate by Sen. Max Sherman.

The bill would give cattle owners a 30-day period in which to dip cattle which are moved into a quarantined area from out-of-state. The bill also allows feedlots exemptions from dipping requirements.

Passage of the bill would be of benefit to Panhandle cattlemen due to the possibility of severe winter weather, according to Poff.

The Amarillo legislator served last fall on an interim House committee on scabies regulations. The bill is one outgrowth of that committee findings.
